The true, genuine, unadulterated country boy is an article that a man, even with the learning of a hotel clerk, could find great room to study. He is just about the same, so far as appearance goes, from Florida to Washington Territory, but his capacity to invent and carry out place for doing mischief is something wonderful. The genuine country boy always has the end of his noso ornamented with a good healthy blister in summer time, and it is always about the color of a blue bottle in a drug store window in winter. Nobody over remembers seeing a country boy's pants supported by more than one suspender, and the pants are generally about nine icedes too short. It is impossible for him to be happy without a stone bruise on his heel or a splicter under his finger nail. He

of about forty five degress, and whistles at all times and under all circumstances. Whenever you hear his mother get out on the front gallery and yell, "Now, John Henry, if you run off and go in swimming this evening, I'il thrash you till you can't sit down for a week." you will be perfectly safe in betting your last red cent that he will be down in the mill poud in less than two hours. He is always the possessor of a sling and a "bow'n arrer." and when he can aspire to the honor of an old single-barrel shot guo, with the lock tied on with a buckskin string, he is supremely happy. He then makes raids around the edge of the cornfield for "Ingine." But his greatest pride is in a yellow bottail deg, with a scalded place on his back, and he and the dog are inseparable friends and fight is out on the same line. He has perfect confidence in all the ghost stories he ever hears, and invariably sees a ghost when-

He can ask 382 questions to the minute offhand, and a good many more when he studies right hard, and generally makes a point of inflicting them on some citified chap that had rather have the seven year itch with a year the start. He is as honest as the day is long, and will take a thrashing any time rather than do a real mean se, but will tie two old tom cats' tails together and string them over a clothes ine when the folks are all away from home without ever thinking how rough it is on the cats. He will afterward reflect on the error of his ways, and stuff an old wool hat in the gable end of his pants before the old felks get back home. but you can't swim. You are not half so big a gunboat as you pretend to be." This salutation nettled the bird, and he spunk.

"You may be able to fly through the air, ed up and replied : "I am a better man than you are any day in the week, and if you were up here on this limb I'd prove it or break my wings trying to !" "Pooh! If you were down here in the most they should go to the cat and have a test to see which excelled. It so happened that the cat was out to soo if there was any chance to pisk up a bone at some one else's expense, and the bird quickly brought her to the banks of the pond "You see," began the oat, as she streked her whiskers and looked wis , "this bird can not swim and the catish cannot fly. Therefore, you must meet on neutral ground. Each thinks bis cause is right, and you come to me to decide. The cattish will swim to the bank and the bird will alight on his back. One will try to pull the other down, and the other will try to pull the one up, and may the best man win. The programme was carried out, each being certain of victory; but while they were strug gling, the cat raked in both for the benefit of her stomach. "When men can'e agree," mused the satisfied cat, as she walked homeward, "they can always go to law, and the law will settle the dispute, if it has to eat the cause of it. "P. S .- Titles examined and the titlers de

THE GREASE TREE -In Coins there grows a tree known as the grosse tron. It is said that large forests of this vegetable lubricant ar : to be found there, and they form the source of considerable local traffic. This tree not very long ago was imported into India, and it is said that the experiment of cultivating it there has proved quite successful. In the Parjanb and northwestern provinces generally it grows as rapidly and as vigorously as in its native sail, and there are already thousands of trees on the Government plantations yielding tons of seed admirably adapted to a variety of commercial purposes. A chemist in the Pasjaut, has propared hundred weights of grease from this perticular tree, and has forwarded on trial a por tion of it to the Parjanb railway to have its qualities tested in a practical manner as lubri cating material for those parts of the machinery constantly exposed to friction. The grease thus obtained forms an excellent tallow, barning with a clear, brilliant, and which is infinitely more to the purpose, a white light, and at the same time emitting not a trace of any unpleasant odor or any of the ordinary disagreeable accompaniments of combustion.
